WE observe some new telegraph posts are being put up along the Praya Central, which are a great improvement upon the "olo fashion" poles. They are made of tube iron and taper off in diameter from about six inches at the base to three at the top, which is finished off by a lightning rod. They are painted white above and black at the base and are certainly far more sightly than the wooden posts, and we should imagine would be far better calculated to withstand the stress of gale or North China Ins. > We are glad to notice that the gentlemen who claim St. Andrew as their Patron Saint are called to assemble together, to consider the best mode of celebrating the 30th day of November next. So far as we are able to judge, the feeling amongst Scotchmen is to keep up the Caledonian Ball as the opening assembly of the Season, making it just as distinctively national as it has been hitherto. To permit the celebration to relapse into a Scotch Dinner, whereat the glories of haggis, whisky and the national character are freely discussed, would, we think, be a pity; and in saying so we are expressing the views of a very large section of those who claim a special interest in St. Andrew. The assertion of distinctive nationality merely for the sake of so doing, is out of place in a community like that of Hongkong; but to do so, as an excuse to show a little of that hospitality of which all Scotchmen ought to be proud, is not only appropriate but is, we think, eminently becoming.

A TELEGRAM was received yesterday, by Señor Mencarini, Spanish Consul for this port, announcing the sad news of the death of Sen or Alberto de Garay, Consul for Spain at Shanghai, by drowning in the Hwangpor. No particulars of the fatal accident are known at present, but it is pre-Daylight .- Mitsu Bishi Mail leaves for sumed that the decessed gentleman had gone affeat to pay a visit on board the Spanish man-af-war lying in Shangbai, and met with the accident on the way. Senor Garay had been for seven years Consul for " Spain at Shaoghai, and was bell in high eateem by all who knew him, as much for his genial and kindly private character as for his able and honest manner of conducting his official duties. A pagesion has just been rendered by Police Judge Rix, San Francisco, in the case of the People va. Ab Dip, declaring unconstitutional and voil the or tinance passed by the Board of Supervisors on May 26, 1880, making it unlawful for any person to maintain or carry on a laundry in a frame building without the consent of the Board of Supervisors. Robert Ash appeared for the people, and Thomas D. Riordan appeared on behalf of the defendant and the Ohinese Consulate. Counsel for defendant claimed that the ordinance was void unconstitutional because : First The Consolidation Act confers no power on the Board to pass the ordinano . Fourth-It is not of equal and uniform operation. Fifth-It is a deprivation of vested rights. Sixth-It deprives a manhis property without due process of law.

The on y point which the Court deemed necessary to pass upon in rendering its decition was that the ordinance would deprive a man of rights that had been acquired, and had vested under the authority and sanction of previously existing laws. The flect of the ordinance would be that a person who night have invested a great amount of modey to a frame building for the purpose of car ting on the laundry business would be at the mercy of the Board of Supervisors, ar I if they refused to grant him a zant, he would be effectually deunder repair, as the versel is worn one, it | prived of his property without any prices is sufficient to render the ordinance uncon stitutional, and it was so declared, and to defendant was discharge t.

This is the second ordinance of a similar character that has been passed by the present board, neither of which has been upheld by the Court Several prosecutions were instituted under the first ordinance, but in none of the cases did the people ancoold in securing a conviction.

I entered a fine one in good order; it is an artificial excavation out of the solid sandstone. entered by a porch, the door of which has been protected by three horizontal bara, serving as a gate, the ends being let into the rock on either side. The porch is 5 feet square, and has two receases a few triches deep, one on each side, as if intended to serve as a sort of cupboard. The main body of the cave I found to be nine feet square, with domed roof, six feet in its centre, and two bunks, two feet deep, one on each side, and a few inches off the floor the two holes which appear at the end are recesses about 6 inches deep,-the partition between them, only two inches thick, has a hole through it, as if to fasten something to it. The protecting ledges over the bunks have similar holes in them as if to haug a curtain in front of them. Around the floor runs a little gutter to drain off the water, and thus keep it dry if it made water, but it is dry enough.
